Workshops, online resources and individual or group advising sessions help you develop and strengthen your job search skills and help you stand out to potential employers.

Interact with employer and alumni through employer information, career fairs, targeted networking events, and involvement in student organizations activities.

Use iCareers (our career database) to discover full and part time job, internship and directed fieldwork opportunities. You can also identify potential Capstone projects and sponsors through this platform.

Internship opportunities allow you to apply concepts and practices learned in course work as you assist in professional entry-level work. We strongly encourage students to participate in a least one of these learning opportunities. 87% of the 2017 INFO survey respondents completed at least one internship. 44% reported doing two or more. The reported pay range for INFO internships was $10 to $51/hour with a median of $25.
