The Challenge

Grand Challenges funds research projects to find solutions to prevalent global health issues. They are currently experiencing a lack of information between the organization and the grantees. Without this information, they have no way to gauge the level of impact they have had internationally.

The Solution

Our solution brings the vastness of the web into an organized, searchable portal that will allow users find and filter news articles related specifically to projects funded by the foundation. With stories and evidence of the value of these smaller grants, the Grand Challenges program will continue to receive funding and solve important global health issues.
