

What is the Institute of Health Metrics and Evaluation?

The Institute of Health Metrics and Evaluation (IHME) is an independent research center at the University of Washington, providing measurement of the world’s health problems and finding strategies to solve them

The Problem: Current Portal

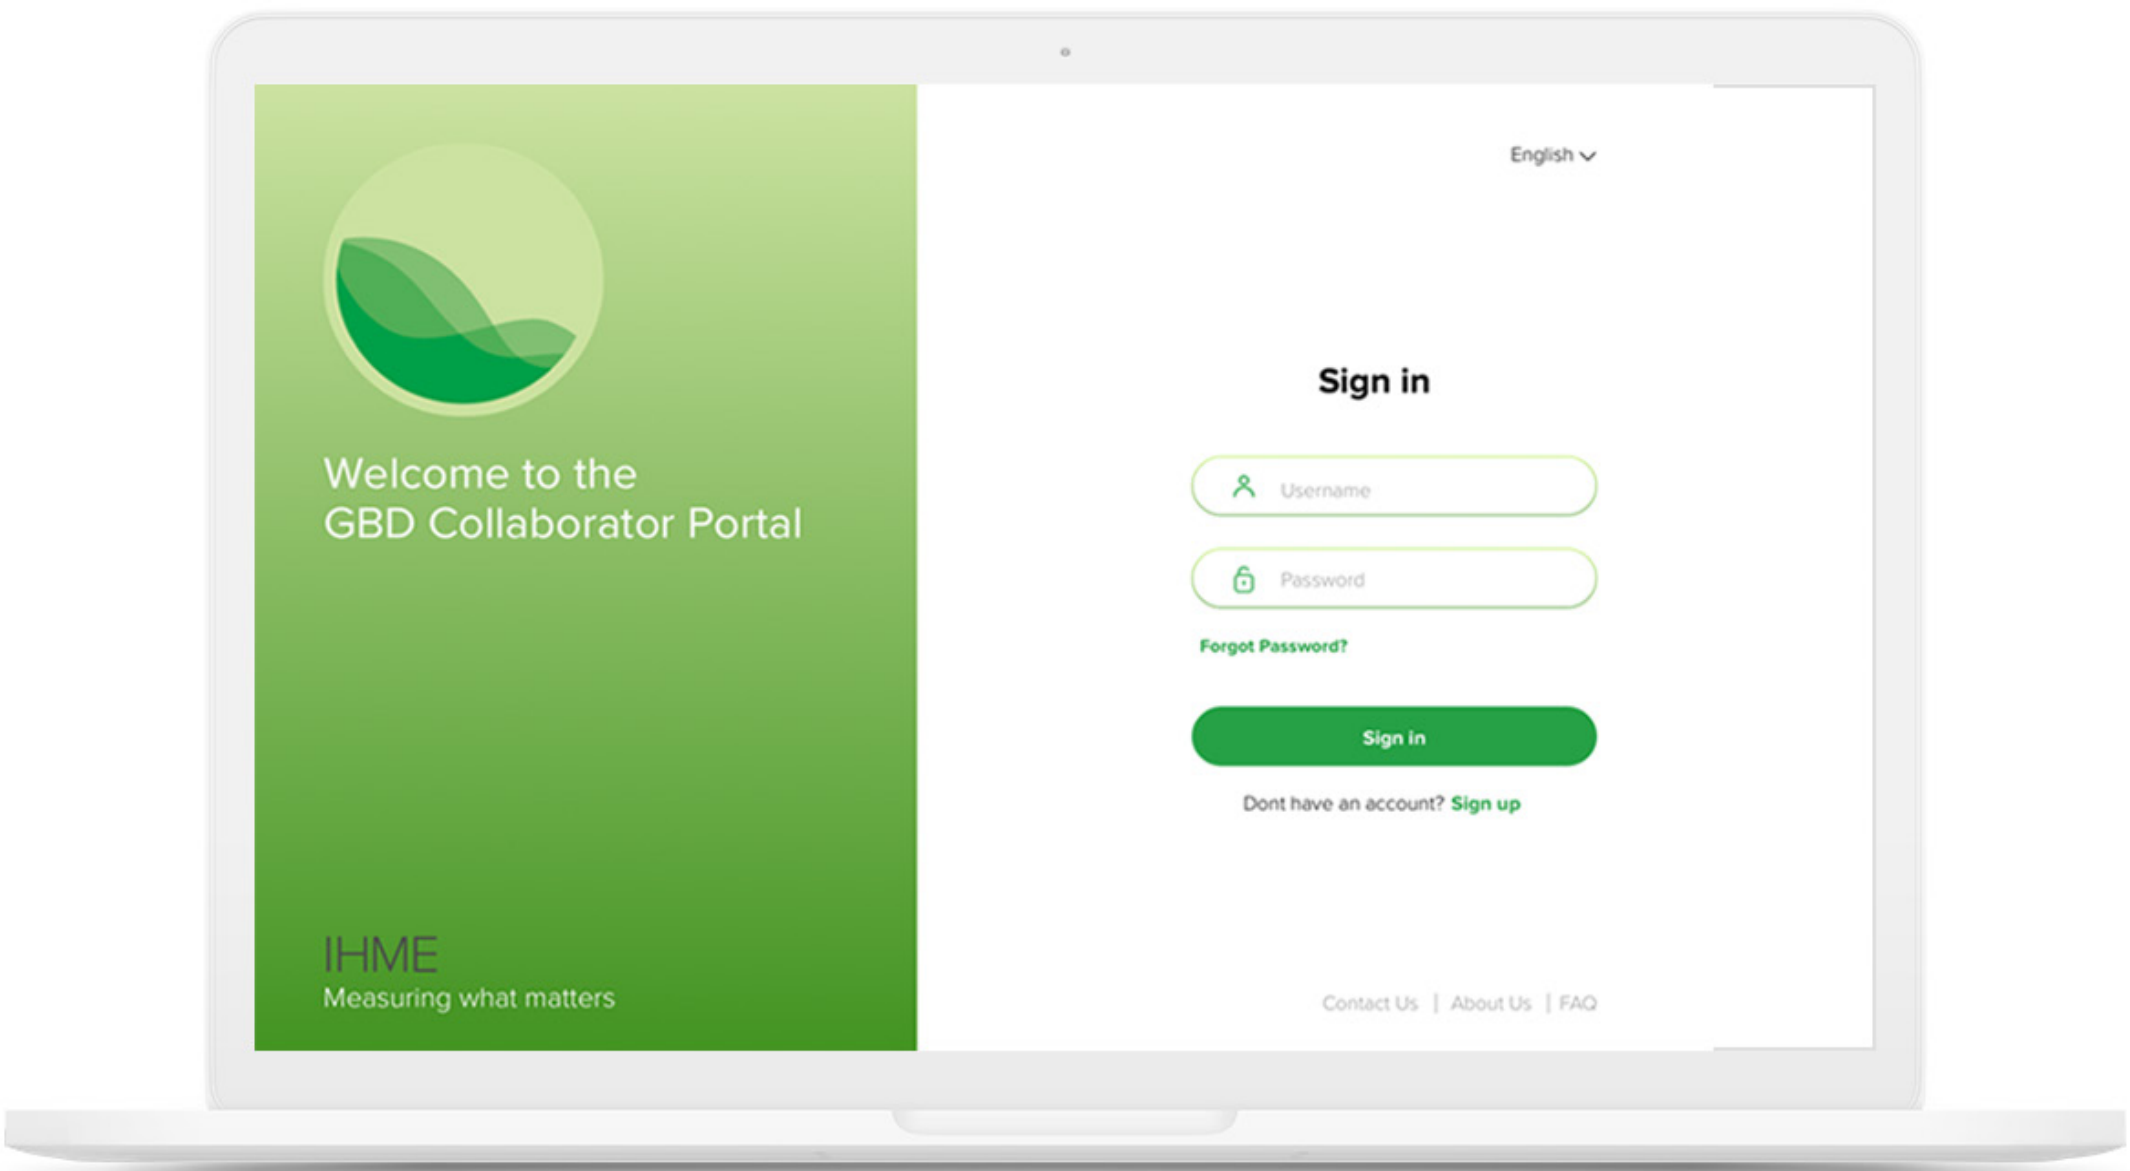

There is only a single password for the 3,400 collaborators to enter the portal and there is no way for them to view or edit their own information. There is only one IHME staff that has to manually update the information on a per request basis, spending valuable hours every day completing these requests

Our Solution

User Login Page

We built an user authentication page, allowing collaborators to enter an unique login credential to access their own profile

User Profile Page

We redesigned the user profile page by prioritizing a content overhaul. This page also has profile viewing and editing capabilities
