

verdancy

A website focused on gardening with environmental impacts www.verdancy.info

How might beginner gardeners use home gardening to reduce their carbon footprint?

On average, home gardening can reduce your carbon footprint by 68 lbs of CO2 per year. Verdancy is a website that tracks the carbon emissions you save from growing vegetables at home.

sustainability focus highlight how home gardening creates a positive sustainable impact advocate for beginners provide resources for new gardeners starting their gardening journey

1. add

select from a wide array of vegetables to add to your personal online garden

2. harvest

harvest vegetables when fully grown to track carbon emissions saved

3. track

get instant results of your carbon impact from your garden at home

