

Native Voices

AN INTERACTIVE MAP AND WEBSITE, HIGHLIGHTING INDIGENOUS VOICES IN THE PNW

Native Voices promotes land acknowledgement and celebrates Indigenous voices in the Pacific Northwest. Our map and site is a collection of literary and film work from and about Indigenous communities.

DID YOU KNOW?

Land Acknowledgements

They are a way to show gratitude for the native land we occupy. It is a sign of acknowledgement, respect, and a call to actively support native communities through financial means and land back initiatives.

Statistics

According to data compiled by the CCBC at U Wisc-Madison, less than 1% of books published each year are about or by Indigenous people. This a huge lack of representation for Indigenous communities.

Resources

Native Voices also aims to be a place where we share additional resources about Indigenous communities, scholars, and book reviewers who strive to center their communities by sharing information that is accurate and free of harmful stereotypes.

<https://www.nativecollections.org>

Adylenne Ascencio
Graphic Designer & Selector

Rachel Kresl
Map Creator & Selector

Information School
UNIVERSITY of WASHINGTON