Creative Corner for Library Staff

Presenters: Annika Janzen (MLIS) & Amelia Klaus (MLIS)
Sponsored by the University of Washington Libraries, Suzzallo & Odegaard Libraries

What is the Creative Corner Project?
- A pair of staff facing creativity stations
- 1 in Suzzallo Library, 1 in Odegaard Library
- Open for 6 week trial period
- Featured 1 new highlighted craft each week, plus assorted supplies (such as crayons, coloring book pages, beads, and much much more)

Goals?
- Lower Stress
- Foster Creativity
- Strengthen employee/employer relationship

Assessment & Feedback
- short survey, 44 respondents over 2 week period.
  - 60% of users felt "slightly," "quite," or "very" relaxed.
  - Reasons for not participating: "too busy" (62.1%) and "not interested" (44.8%).
  - Barriers to participation: "too busy," worried about getting in trouble with coworkers for "wasting time" by participating, and difficulty understanding the directions.

Participant Feedback:
- "I had a great time with my co-worker! It took our mind off our workday for awhile and filled us with energy to continue the week. Thanks!"
- "Work day is often not very creative so it felt good to do something with my hands. Have been enjoying my creation (flower) ever since- have it at my desk."
